Udaipur

Full day is for a sightseeing tour of Udaipur. Udaipur was founded in the 16th century by Maharana Udai Singh on the banks of Lake Pichola. Before India's independence, it was the capital of the Mewar Empire. In 1559, the city palace was built, which we visit. Not far from it is the Jagdish Temple, built in 1650 by Maharana Jagat Singh. In the afternoon we start for a stroll through the old town, where it is easy to get lost in the narrow streets.

Udaipur Outskirts Trekking - Long
(9 kms. Approx. – Plain + uphill)

7:30 A.M. : Arrive at the beginning point - Amba Mata i.e. only 20 minutes away from the city center.

7:45 A.M. : Start hiking with Rajasthan Trekking Guide.

We reach the first village in about half an hour where we have an interactive session with a few villagers & also visit their homes to see the lifestyle.

We will see the villager's doing daily chores & their cattle grazing in the fields around the village... We shall now continue our trek towards next tribal village, The Trek will be a mix of small hilly Terrain & Uphill climbs... on these treks, we will pass through various small villages and hamlets where we shall come across The Bhil Tribe (one of the oldest indigenous tribes) and a few other natives such as The old Warrior clan of The Rajputs who are mostly farmers now.

12:30 P.M.: We arrive at finishing point... This place is a religious spot for the people around. There are a couple of temples here. One of them is dedicated to Lord Shiva and The other to The Mother Goddess... from here one can get a panoramic view of the countryside.

1:15 P.M.: Drive back to Amba Mata.

Or

Today after breakfast will drive to the starting point of today's hike. We arrive at The Badi Lake and start hiking with our trekking guide. This lake in the village of Badi built at a cost of Rs. 688,000 (Lakh 6,88,000) by Maharana Raj Singh I (1652-1680) to counteract the devastating effects of a famine. He named it Jiyan Sagar after his mother Jana Devi. The lake covers an area of 155 sq. km., and has an embankment 180 m. long and 18 m. wide, which is graced by three artistic chhatris (kiosks or pavilions). During the drought of 1973, the lake supplied water to the people of Udaipur. Not many foreign tourists access this beautiful site of Udaipur as it is out of the way of regular tourist routes. We Hike towards the first village where we have an interactive session with a few villagers & also visit their homes to see the lifestyle. Later, via another tribal village, we walk through a blend of a little rugged terrain and hills with beautiful and scenic agricultural fields. Later after finishing the trek will go to a local family house and have tea /coffee with the family. After spending some time there will drive back to the hotel

Afternoon on own. Possibility of Dance- and Cultural Show in the evening (pay on own)

Godwad

Today early morning we will go for a shepherd village walk where will interact with local rebari people and see their life style. They are traditional camel breeders. Camels are part of Rajasthan, but their importance and numbers as well as the life of the Raika have changed a lot. While it used to be used as a beast of burden and draught animal, tractors and other vehicles have replaced it today. Later enjoy lunch at the camp. In the evening go for a leopard safari around the backwaters of Jawai, this place also offers you great chance to spot great bird life. Later come back to camp and make your own food yourself as an cooking class will be held on the camp for you people. Later enjoy the dinner. Bye bye to the escorting guide.
